Daily Works Management

DWM is defined as the system that provides the ability to manage departments, functions, and processes, wherein processes are defined, standardized, controlled, and improved by the process owners.

Do you face any of the following problems in your workplace?

Inability to appropriately control output variables of your process to desired levels.

Unforeseen variation in process execution beyond your control

Too much time spent collecting data / inaccurate data being reported by subordinates

Review meetings are not giving the results they should be giving

Planning is perfect, but due to variables beyond control, none of them are executed to the desired levels

Lot of improvements but a lack of synchronization among these various improvements across the organization
