The most important of all is willingness to pass knowledge across colleagues and down the line and make themselves as knowledge person.

The willingness to take responsibility and ownership mindset and commitment are some of the important learnings and adaptation by the Quality Concept practitioners. All these Qualities lead them to develop as knowledge workers, thereby enhancing the organisations in competitive Quality / service which will contribute to efforts of "National Building":

About Theme : "Investing in people, building a better future"

The theme is befitting to our forum's primary purpose of "People building philosophy" as the forum is engaged in the primary activity of "Developing people" through training and handholding of various quality concepts.

It aims at holistic development of human individuals who unleash their creative potential given an opportunity and empowerment. Indeed QCFI in its journey of 4 decades has seen leap jump of first line employees in multiple organizations who have been effectively trained, come upto a level of attaining their full potential and capabilities. they are able to achieve self & mutual development and organizational development.

Training people in QC circle/ LQC/ LSC / Kaizen /5S / TPM etc., as an important part of development and workplace utilization have given rise to many organizations practising company wide improvement activities.

Investing in people has helped in interactive behaviours in team working with desired positive approach to any of the challenges.

This is what Dr K Ishikawa, Japanese organizational theorist, father of quality circle propounded as "Human Value Goals" as happiness to mankind. Mr. Kōnosuke Matsushita who referred to as the "God of Management" in Japan has stated "we make people before we make products"

After all everyone in life has an ambition that they have happiness in realising self worth happiness in continuous learning, happiness being recognized for their contribution in their own way to the qualitative improvement of the organization, society and nation at large. All these can be achieved only through people building & people engagement in a cost effective way for a better future & growth.

ABOUT VENUE

ABV - Indian Institute of Information Technology & Management

Indian Institute of Information Technology and Management (IIITM) in Gwalior, Madhya Pradesh is an autonomous institute set by Government of India, Ministry of Human Resource Development (MHRD) in 1997. It is an effort by MHRD towards creating professionals in areas of management and information technology from the same institute. This institute was created for facilitating higher education, research, and consultancy in areas of information technology (IT) and business management. Initially started as IIITM, this institute was prefixed with ABV in 2002 to honour the then Prime Minister Shri Atal Bihari Vajpayee.

All pervasive growth of IT in India was triggered by Software Policy in 1986, Electronic Policy in 1985, and Computer Policy in 1984. These three policies in unison led to extensive use of computerised methods across different sectors of business, industries, and public administration thereby necessitating the need for competent professionals at different levels. Infrastructures like Internet, INDONET, NICNET, ERNET, and INFLIBNET were established for supporting this demand for widespread usage of computerised processes.

IIITM was set up as an autonomous institute under Societies Registration Act. This centrally funded body run by a Board of Governors aims at offering education, research, training, and consultancy in fields of management and IT in an integrated way.

The institute is located on a 160-acre (0.65 square km) campus near Gwalior Fort. It is a residential campus; faculty and students live in campus. It houses several departmental blocks with academic block houses lecture theatres, seminar halls, library, laboratories and faculty offices, administrative block, an open amphitheatre, indoor sports complex and the student hostels. There are three hostels for boys and one for girls. The campus has a variety of plants including those with medicinal properties.
