About Theme: "Leading with Quality for Sustainable Growth and Self-Reliance,"

The 40th National Convention on Quality Concepts (NCQC) will be held in December 2026 at Bhubaneswar. The convention theme, "Leading with Quality for Sustainable Growth and Self-Reliance," reflects the core philosophy of the Quality Circle Forum of India (QCFI)—developing people through continuous learning, capability building, and the practical application of quality concepts.

For more than four decades, QCFI has championed quality excellence by fostering continuous improvement across industries and society. The growing scale and diversity of its conventions demonstrate this journey, with case studies evolving beyond productivity, quality, cost, and efficiency to include sustainability, environmental stewardship, and ESG initiatives, reaffirming QCFI's commitment to responsible and inclusive growth. Leading with quality means pursuing excellence through continuous improvement, accountability, and innovation, creating long-term value while promoting the efficient use of resources, environmental responsibility, and self-reliance through stronger local capabilities and systems.

Organizations across manufacturing, services, healthcare, education, and defence have successfully implemented quality concepts such as 5S, Kaizen, Quality Circles (QC), Lean Quality Circles (LQC), Lean Manufacturing, TPM, TQM, and World Class Manufacturing (WCM) to enhance operational excellence and organizational performance. Initiatives like Home 5S have further expanded the reach of these practices beyond the workplace, inspiring employees and their families to embrace organized, disciplined lifestyles that contribute to positive cultural transformation and improved quality of life.

By empowering individuals, teams, and organizations to achieve excellence through quality, QCFI continues to advance productivity, sustainability, resilience, and self-reliance. The convention's theme reinforces the belief that quality is not only a driver of organizational success but also a fundamental pillar of national development and sustainable progress.
